Victor Emanuel, the Crown Prince and Princess and Prince Amadeus, accompanied by the president of council Signor Minghetti and the minister of foreign affairs Signor Visconti Venosta received the emperor and suite at the railway station, where the members of the royal household and representatives from the two chambers were in waiting. The minister of war Signor Ricotti and minister of interior Signor Cantelli, were also present. It is expected the emperor will remain here three or four days.

Foreign Wheat Markets.

London, Oct. 18.—The Mark Lane Express in its review of the corn market, says that in consequence of recent heavy rains seed time is promising but the dampness has affected most of the new crop. Large foreign arrivals have checked the upward tendency in price but holders are still indisposed to make any concession. Trade is therefore inactive. At Paris prices are rather lower, while in France wheat is steady and dearer. Belgium is unchanged. Holland is firmer. Germany steady and inactive. Odessa firm. Averages are 1s 2d higher, the bulk of that sold being fully 3s inferior in price to the previous crop.

NEWS FROM THE ARCTIC.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

London, Oct. 18.—The Pandora arrived safe and sound at Portsmouth this afternoon after an adventurous and eventful voyage in the Arctic seas. The Pandora arrived safely at Disco and left that port on the 7th of August, reaching Upernavik in time to leave on the 13th. After sailing from Upernavik the Pandora crossed the dreaded Melville bay without mishap. The usual fields of pack ice were not visible and an almost clear sheet of water was found. The passage was made in good time. In due time the expedition reached Carey Island, where Commander Young anticipated finding dispatches that might have been left by Capt. Nares to be taken to the British admiralty. In this he was disappointed, as no signs of the government exploring expedition were visible. Nothing further to be done at the island, Captain Young decided to steer for Lancaster Sound and on reaching that point encountered for the first time ice floes. So great was the pressure of floating ice that it was with great difficulty that the Pandora was forced on. Despite the ice and difficulty of the passage Captain Young succeeded in traversing the entire length of Barrow Strait, making the passage in good time. The Pandora's progress was then impeded by a dense and blinding fog, which was so thick and impenetrable that men a few feet from each other were invisible. As soon as the steamer arrived at anchor off Beechy Island several of the officers and crew went ashore and made an examination of the buildings. They found the storehouse built for the benefit of sailors or castaways of ice bound vessels, broken into. On entering the building they found clothing and provisions left there to be in a state of confusion. Everything in sight was scattered about in the most singular way. At first it seemed to have been the act of human beings, but they were satisfied the destruction of the stores had been accomplished by Polar bears, as tracks were visible in every direction. One discovery made was that the head boards over the graves of Sir John Franklin's men who were lying buried there are still standing upright and in good preservation. On the 8th of August the Pandora steamed from Beechy Island for Peel strait, and then commenced the most critical period of the voyage, for the steamer encountered vast fields of pack ice, making the passage most difficult and laborious, struggling through pack ice. She steadily worked her way, and despite difficulty soon passed the furthest point reached by the Fox when McClintock was in search of Sir John Franklin. Soon after reaching there the Pandora neared the island known as King William's Land, thus navigating a sea where no ship ever went before except perhaps that of Sir John Franklin. At this time the most intense excitement prevailed among the officers and men, as it was expected some important results were at hand. Many believed they would be sure to discover traces of Franklin's expedition, and some were sanguine that even Sir John's papers would be found, and eventually making Behring's Straits. In this, however, they were disappointed. Roquette's Island was discovered ahead. It was then discovered probable that the vessel would be able to reach Bellot's Straits. As the steamer moved forward all hands gazed eagerly ahead to the southward, but on reaching Roquette's Island the officers and men saw the edge of a solid pack of ice, which stretched across from side to side in one unbroken expanse of hummock ice. This pack blocked the entrance to Bellot's straits. It was the same pack of ice that stopped Captain McClintock on the Fox, so there was no hope of a speedy movement of the icy barrier. The Pandora stayed at this point till the 7th of September, when, finding no further progress possible, Capt. Young and officers saw they must either decide to remain through the winter in the ice or return. After mature deliberation it was decided to be useless to remain in winter quarters, and it would be far better to return next year. The return journey was full of difficulties. Ice was rapidly forming and the passage of the Pandora was a constant series of exciting scenes and narrow escapes from moving ice floes. Finally, steering through Peel strait, the ice still rapidly forming and accumulating, the steamer at last reached Carey Islands in safety. Then Captain Young found the long looked for dispatches from Captain Nares for the admiralty. From Melville bay the Pandora steamed direct for England and arrived safely. Captain Young reports that from the prevalence of north winds there is abundant promise that Captain Nares will prove successful. Should the expedition [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] Captain Nares will proceed to the [illegible] [illegible] possible.

REPORT OF RED CLOUD COMMISSION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Washington, Oct. 18.—The following is an analysis of the report made by the commission composed of Messrs. Fletcher, Harris, Faulkner and Atherton, appointed to investigate and report on the charges of mismanagement and fraud at the Red Cloud agency made by Prof. Marsh. The [illegible] commission for the investigation of the affairs of the Red Cloud agency have closed their labors and submitted their report to the president and [illegible] of Indian commissioners by whom they were appointed. Adopting Marsh's letter to the president, setting forth charges of fraud and mismanagement in Indian affairs, as their starting point, the commission take up his allegations seriatim, examining all available sources of evidence and scrutinizing all records and documents, proof of which might in their judgment throw any light upon the subject. The printed testimony so taken comprised more than 800 octavo pages. The commission sustain the charges of [illegible] against Agent Saville [illegible] [illegible] to him as one Indian agent who goes out of office a poorer man than when he entered. With reference to the charge that the number of Indians at Red Cloud had been greatly over estimated for purposes of fraud, the commissioners notice that many officers concur with Prof. Marsh in his belief, and that there were not so many there as had been represented, but in support of the charge opinion merely has been offered. The enumeration of Indians was attended with great difficulties and delays, such was their determined opposition to being counted, and the fact that northern or wild Indians were liable to visit the agency and demand goods at all times. The census of last year shows there were [illegible] at Red Cloud agency. The commission find that the system of keeping accounts at the agency was exceptionally loose and defective, and for this reason, of the Indian office, is justly censurable. They also observed that the provision of the treaty of 1868 requiring the presence of an army officer at all issues of goods had been utterly disregarded, but could not conclude from that, in the absence of other proof, that fraud had been practiced. The question of beef forms the principal part of the report. The annual expenditure for its supply is large, and fraud is charged in connection with contracts and contractors, with the magnitude of the sums involved, that in consequence of fraud and mismanagement the Indians suffered greatly for food, that Agent Saville withheld from them provisions which he charged against the government as having been issued to them, that frauds in weights are consummated by direct collusion between the agent and the contractor, and that equal rascality is practiced in regard to the number of cattle, that another fruitful source of fraud is the system of stampeding, that the frauds have been gigantic and long and systematically continued.

Prof. Marsh's pamphlet partakes rather of the nature of an argument than a pure presentation of the facts, and in reviewing these several charges the commissioners find that he has based his conclusions more upon hearsay evidence than on personal knowledge and well established facts. The charge that Agent J. J. Saville and J. W. Bosler with his assistants combined to defraud the government is found to be entirely unsupported by facts. In support of his charges Prof. Marsh alludes to a contract for the last fiscal year, and argues that it was tainted with fraud from its inception. The contract, it appears, was awarded to J. K. Foreman, who was the lowest bidder and who complied with all the published requirements. Subsequently for business reasons it was assigned to W. A. Paxton. In order that a combination might be formed to carry out so large a contract, Bosler furnished capital and purchased cattle in the name of Paxton. To execute such contract at so low a rate with success and profit required capital, skill and business capacity, and in consideration of those which Bosler contributed he was entitled to receive a greater share of profits. The commission failed to discover in all the facts any evidence of fraud in the matter. In the same connection Prof. Marsh speaks of Bosler as notorious for frauds in previous contracts, and for this reason was excluded from further participation in government contracts. In examining the facts bearing on the allegation it was found that Bosler has himself at various times had contracts with the war and Indian departments, and never was refused a contract when his bid entitled him to it, but had always been awarded any contract for which he was the lowest bidder. It has not been shown or attempted to be shown that he has violated any previous contract or been a party to any frauds upon the government. Moreover he has been awarded a contract by the Indian office the present year. The commission say they find this charge wholly unsupported, nor has anything occurred to warrant them in regarding Bosler as other than an honest man in all his business transactions. His participation in the contract of Seth Mabry for the supply of beef to the Sioux agencies this year is shown to be a similar arrangement to that previously mentioned, and under which he purchased over [illegible] head of beef cattle, which are now being delivered to the agencies by Bosler in Mabry's name and as his agent. The circumstances which led Professor Marsh to the supposition that Agent Saville was in collusion with Bosler to defraud the government and Indians by false deliveries of cattle are analyzed and illustrated by many facts and figures. It appears that on the last day of September 1874 the delivery of several hundred head of cattle was made to the agency, and during the night, in the midst of a violent storm, they stampeded and 228 were lost. In consequence of this loss the regular issue was interrupted. A clerical error in the agent's book at or about the same time represented subsequent issues to have been made to the Indians on other days from which they actually occurred. Bosler claimed that of 228 head that were lost only 150 went back to his herd on the River Platte, and an equal number of substantially the same size and value were afterwards returned to the agent by him. These facts were fully reported by Saville to the department in December 1874, at a time when no frauds had been imputed to him or the contractor. As these voluntary statements made then are the same as those now given in testimony, the commission feel compelled to accept them as true, and are of opinion that this imputation of dishonesty put upon Saville is without foundation. The next allegation of Professor Marsh is that in pursuance of this design to defraud the Indians and government Bosler delivered to Saville cattle so small and lean as to be unfit for beef, which the agent accepted and receipted for, but investigation reveals that this charge rests solely on the statement of Red Cloud and two other Indians, though sought to be strengthened by a certificate of Gen. Bradley, Capt. Mix and Lieut. Hay. The testimony shows that on the 9th of Nov. 1874, there remained in the agency a herd of seven head of cattle which are said by all who saw them, and admitted by Saville himself, to have been poor, small and altogether unfit for beef, but that they had ever been receipted for to the contractor or issued to Indians as stated by Red Cloud is by no means established. Owing to the confusion of ideas Prof. Marsh represented the agent as having receipted for them. His mistake was in confounding the words receipted and received. Another charge of Prof. Marsh is that Dr. Saville intentionally receipted for greater numbers of cattle than were delivered, and that their weights were largely overestimated in the receipts. One instance was adduced as proof of this, that on the 9th of November Saville receipted for several hundred head of Texas cattle at an average weight of 1,013 pounds, while the true weight did not exceed, in Prof. Marsh's judgment, 750 pounds, which he considered a liberal estimate, that all the cattle of that herd were wretchedly gaunt and thin, that the majority were small, many were yearlings and not a few weak and decrepit. The testimony on this subject is voluminous. The report next reviews the Foreman contract for the year 1874 for the supply of beef to six Sioux agencies. At the request of the commissioners Mr. Bosler presented for their private use an abstract from his books for that year, showing the number of cattle purchased, delivered and lost, cost of herding, incidental expenses, amount of capital employed and net profits realized. The total cost to the government of beef for the year was $700,8[illegible], and the net profits to contractors was $117,[illegible]. The commissioners were satisfied from the evidence that profit was perfectly fair and legitimate. They say if great frauds in weight have been perpetrated at Red Cloud, similar frauds must have been practiced at all other agencies, and to assume this requires that they should find all those six agents, their clerks and assistants, contractors and associates and [illegible] and herders combined to cheat both [illegible] and government, and that all similarly or directly in the benefit of the fraud. They say the facts do not support it. They came to the same conclusion with reference to the contract for the present year, and are convinced that during the years in question all cattle were received and receipted for at their actual weights and numbers. Of the issue of May 4th, 1875, while it appears the cattle were not equal to the average, there is no evidence to show that any fraud was practiced upon the Indians or government. Professor Marsh's charges of fraud growing out of the system of stampeding, [illegible] great losses on the Indians and the government, are found to be [illegible] only [illegible] and not on personal knowledge, which information is found to be incorrect. The [illegible] [illegible] the exhaustive investigation they [illegible] to justify the conclusion that frauds had been committed. The commissioners recommend as a safeguard check that the delivery of beef be [illegible] detailed for that purpose under the [illegible] of the commissary general of the army. [illegible] was found in the matter of a pork contract. [illegible] the removal of Inspector Burkfield, who passed the pork. They cannot acquit Commissioner Smith from neglect of responsibility in allowing a clerical error to pass the Indian office, which rendered the fraud possible. The matter was compromised by the delivery of bacon to make up the difference of value of pork received and that contracted for, with little loss to the government. The original contract called for mess pork, but by a clerical error the word 'mess' was omitted, and the contractor took advantage of this fact to furnish the lowest grade of pork, which the inspector passed. The commission also find that flour of inferior quality, which Major Long was directed to inspect, slipped through without inspection, and got to the agency in a manner which has not been explained, but they conclude the department erred in awarding the contract for flour to J. T. Martin, who was a mere speculative bidder without business responsibility. An attempt at fraud was discovered on the part of D. J. McCann in putting only 88 pounds of flour in each sack which was to contain 100 pounds. Sugar, coffee and tobacco furnished to the Indians by the government were of low grade, but designedly so, and no abuse was ever discovered in the matter of their supply. Red Cloud had evidently adulterated the flour and picked out bad grains in making up the samples he gave to Professor Marsh. The commission recommended that instead of letting contracts for flour in New York they be let at some point in the West, where in the valley of the Mississippi [illegible] extensive flouring mills [illegible] believed active competition may be created and flour be obtained of better quality and cheaper rates than now furnished by the middlemen. Whatever sufferings have been among the Indians is traceable to their own improvidence and severity of weather, instead of any delinquency on the part of government. Extensive frauds were discovered which had grown out of transportation. D. J. McCann, heavy freight contractor, had over estimated the distance from Cheyenne to Red Cloud, as well as misstated the number of teams and days employed removing the property of Red Cloud agency from old to new location. They recommend legal proceedings be instituted against him for money thus fraudulently obtained. They suggest that the time is passed when the government should purchase peace from Indians. Marsh's charges against the secretary of the Interior and commissioner of Indian affairs, if proven, ought to subject both officials to impeachment. They find, however, that the secretary of the Interior personally has but little connection with any contracts made for Indian service, or with the adjustment and payment of accounts returnable to that office. The commission were unable to learn whether the late secretary was consulted or had any direct official connection with the contracts relating to Red Cloud agency, or that he had any official connection with accounts presented for payment at that bureau, except those which if allowed there and rejected by the board of Indian commissioners necessarily came before him for final adjudication. Original vouchers and papers upon which were based claims amounting to nearly half a million of dollars were ordered to be and were fully examined by Messrs. Fletcher and Harris of the commission, who reported that more had been rejected by the board of Indian commissioners on the ground of fraud, but mainly because of some technical difficulty or an honest difference between that body and the Indian bureau upon some question of law arising in this case. They further reported that in no instance were any such payments made without having been submitted to the law officer of that department and met with his approval. Recurring to payment by order of the late secretary of the interior of an account of $[illegible] claimed by D. J. McCann for removal of government stores and property from old to new Red Cloud agency, the commission say they can regard the account in no other light than as iniquitous and fraudulent, but it might be unjust to condemn the secretary for payment, as there is no assurance that certificates of the former agent, J. W. Daniels, accompanied vouchers of McCann. With reference to charges of official delinquency and concealment of fraud, the commission learned of but three occasions when attention of the head of the department was called to the existence of any abuses and frauds at Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies. In his account the secretary says he earnestly requested the professor to furnish him with such information as he had, and with all proofs he could call up as against the agent at Red Cloud, which, however, Professor Marsh declined to do. An interview took place in the secretary's office at his request. Marsh on his part says he told the secretary distinctly that if the investigation commission was appointed he would give the commission specific information in his possession, but on thinking it over concluded he must keep the information to himself until after the commission was appointed. The commission report they have seen nothing in the course of their investigation that would lead to any other conclusion than that the present commissioner earnestly and sincerely desires to perform his duty faithfully to the country. They have encountered no transaction which casts the least shadow upon his personal or official integrity, but have met with many marked with that want of vigilance and decision of character which belong to the head of an important bureau. They think it was inexcusable to permit so long a period to lapse without ascertaining the precise distance between the railroad and the agencies, as contracts for freighting were based on an agreed compensation per mile. It was an error to let at New York those contracts for wagon transportation, also to pay McCann the full amount of his transportation claims while the distance was in dispute, also to authorize the same to appoint an inspector of flour at Cheyenne, and supplying pork to Indians instead of bacon, as furnishing pork involves needless cost of transporting brine and barrels. The commission find however that there has been an improvement in the Indian service under Commissioner Smith's administration. Contracts are now more faithfully executed and recent supplies have been of an unexceptional character. The temper of the Indians has undergone a very favorable change toward our people. The [illegible] of tribal sovereignty is rapidly weakening, and the day has gone by when formidable Indian wars can ever again occur in this country. The commission offers some general observations as the result of their reflections on Indian affairs. They think the time has come when the policy followed in a recent act of congress against the [illegible] with Indians should be vigorously enforced, and the Indians should be treated as individual inhabitants of the republic, and that absurd [illegible] of tribal sovereignty be abolished and [illegible] present satisfaction at the successful operation of schools and missions among the Indians. The commission recommends the establishment of courts for the administration of justice among the Indians in places where their number warrants. They [illegible] population which excludes white people from reservations, thus preventing such contact of Indians with influences of civilization as would tend to impress them favorably with it, and recommend that suitable clothing take place of blankets in government supplies to them. A bolder policy in the treatment of Indians is especially recommended, because the Indians believe the present conduct of the government toward them is dictated by cowardice. With all our munificence in their behalf, extending to an annual expenditure of $8,000,000, no sentiment of gratitude touches their hearts. The commission look with disfavor upon the proposition that the management of Indian affairs be transferred to the war department, though the presence of military officers at the inspection and delivery of supplies would be desirable. In conclusion the commission could recapitulate their conclusions, namely: That Agent Saville be removed; that J. W. L. Slavens, J. H. Martin and D. J. McCann be excluded from future contracts with the government; that J. E. Burkfield be excluded from all future employment; that McCann's accounts be referred to the department of justice; that distances from Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies to Cheyenne and Sidney be measured without further delay; that a new census be taken of Sioux [illegible] and both those agencies; that bids for flour, clothing and wagon transportation be received at some suitable point in the West; that the office of superintendent of Indian agencies be abolished and the duties connected therewith be transferred to inspectors; that the feasibility of dispensing with railroad freight contractors from New York to the West be considered; that army officers be detailed to inspect Indian supplies; that the system of keeping accounts be improved; that Indian agencies be graded with reference to salaries of agents; that the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies be removed nearer to the Missouri river; that commissioned army officers be appointed to consider the propriety of organizing an Indian soldiery for police and similar duties; that a territorial government be established over Indian territory; that suitable persons be appointed [illegible] all [illegible] against Indians to defend their rights as far as they may become subject of adjudication before courts, and that future legislation be shaped with a view to bringing Indians under the same laws which govern all other inhabitants of the republic.

The report is signed by Thos. C. Fletcher, Benj. W. Harris, Charles J. Faulkner and Geo. W. Atherton. Senator Howe, the remaining member of the commission, attended only part of the investigation and was not present to participate in the preparation of the report.

THE GREAT [illegible] BELL AND ITS STRANGE HISTORY.—A letter from Cologne gives an account of [illegible]. The [illegible] bell is the one which Master [illegible] was ordered to cast after the war for the cathedral at Cologne. It was to be called the Emperor's bell, and the military authorities made over to the founder twenty-two French guns captured from the French. Some of the pieces were taken in the seventeenth century and were selected so that the bronze which had probably served to ravage the Palatinate should be [illegible] to celebrate the power and glory of the German Empire. [illegible] to such a length [illegible] conquerors carry their hatred and rancor [illegible]. Master [illegible] [illegible] less than fifty thousand pounds of bronze into the furnace, but [illegible] [illegible] was broken. A second attempt was made [illegible] bell was [illegible] and it had a false tone. A third effort was made, and this time the bell was properly cast and was accepted by the experts. Then [illegible] a long description [illegible] of the inscription [illegible] [illegible] the Emperor [illegible] and his praise. [illegible] placed [illegible] tower [illegible]. May God grant both [illegible] [illegible] the great bell was fully attached and thirty five persons set the ponderous mass in motion, but alas! [illegible] and the tongue moved, but did not strike the bell. Several new attempts have been made, but upon one occasion only has a sound been elicited—a sound deep and low like a sigh or groan. The good souls of Cologne are apparently convinced that the bell will remain mute until Germany has ceased to persecute the Church, and good souls here that even French bronze is so patriotic that it refuses to ring out the praises of the German Emperor and peal over the [illegible] the disasters of France.—Pall Mall Gazette.

CALIFORNIA.

All for being a Witness.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—Charles Jost, owner of the Antioch distillery lately seized by revenue officers for violation of the revenue laws, assaulted Ole Hanson, a witness for the government in the case against Jost, on Front street this afternoon. We have not yet learned the extent of Hanson's injuries, but not supposed to be serious. The incident is significant in connection with the recent stir here in revenue matters.

Counting the Money.

Agents of the government have been engaged to-day in counting the money in the United States sub-treasury of this city. Funds on hand, including $3,010,000 in greenbacks recently received, amount to $5,000,000, $1,000,000 being in currency and $1,000,000 in coin. Exclusive of this, chests containing $3,000,000 cancelled and mutilated greenbacks are packed waiting orders for shipment to Washington.

Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber of commerce will hold its quarterly meeting to-morrow afternoon, when the important questions will be discussed of the abolishment of the present collection days on the 15th and 28th of each month.

Brigham and Ann Eliza Again.

Salt Lake, Oct. 18.—Some months ago Judge McKean made an order requiring Brigham Young to pay Ann Eliza Young $500 per month alimony from the commencement of suit, and attorney's fees of $3,000 in her suit for divorce pending. At the time of the issuing of this order the amount of alimony due was $9,500. The order not being complied with, Brigham Young was brought before Judge McKean, and imprisoned one day in the penitentiary for contempt in not paying the attorneys' fees. These were then paid. Soon after, Judge McKean was removed, and Judge Lowe appointed, who was asked to punish Brigham Young for contempt in not paying the $9,500 alimony. His decision in the case was that the order was illegal and invalid. The case has rested there until to-day, when, upon application, Judge Boreman issued an order, which has been served on Brigham Young, commanding him to appear before the court on Saturday, the 23d, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for disregarding the first order.

CAPTAIN WEBB.

The Lancet publishes the following notes of an examination of Captain Webb by Mr. Henry Smith, F. R. C. S., surgeon to King's College Hospital:—Having had the opportunity of seeing Captain Webb, in the absence of Sir William Fergusson from London, I have made a few notes and observations, the result of the examination of a man who has rendered himself an object of interest to the whole world in general, but in an especial manner to the members of our profession, who are in a better position than any other class of the community to appreciate the wonderful powers of endurance which Captain Webb evinced in the performance of his late most marvellous and unheard-of exploit. As Captain Webb, who is 5ft. 8in. in height and weighs 14 stone and a half, stood before me stripped to the waist, I could not fail being struck with the splendid form and symmetry of his chest, neck and arms, and I was somewhat astonished to find him with such good flesh and so little angularity, as it were, about him. I expected, after such hard training and such severe exertion, that the muscles would stand out in relief and be well marked, as one has seen in prize fighters and other athletes, but, on the contrary, there was a considerable development of other tissues besides that of muscle. On putting him into various attitudes, however, and making him exert particular muscles, their fine development and power were at once noticeable. The triceps especially, as one would expect, is extraordinarily developed. The arm in circumference, three inches above the elbow, was thirteen inches and a half. The forearm, two inches below the elbow, measured eleven inches and a quarter. The circumference of the neck on a level with the thyroid cartilage was over fifteen inches. On examination with the stethoscope I was astonished at the extraordinary volume of air entering the lungs at each inspiration. The sounds of the heart were remarkably clear and hearty. On questioning him minutely about some points connected with his remarkable feat, Captain Webb gave me some interesting answers. In the first place he very [illegible] informed me, on my putting to him the question as to whether he could have held together for another mile, that he certainly could not have done so in the state the sea was in at the time. To my questions as to whether he felt cold at any time whilst he was in the water he answered decidedly, "No." This, I think, is a point of special interest, for with ordinary persons who have remained in the water for a long time swimming we know that the sensation of cold comes on before that of weariness and exhaustion, and warns the swimmer to get on to his native element. A striking illustration of this fact occurred to my observation only last week in a young gentleman who, wishing to emulate Captain Webb's feat in a small degree, swam an immense distance in the sea by the side of a boat. He informed me that he was prompted to give up because he felt chilly, not because he was tired. To my question about the porpoise grease with which his body was anointed, Captain Webb informed me that he did not know that it helped him at all; in fact, that he rather thought he did not derive any benefit from its use. However, of course this point could only be settled by a direct experience of a swimmer performing a feat under exactly similar conditions both with and without the oil. On putting the question as to whether he suffered from any difficulty in breathing during his passage, he said, "Not at all, with the exception of that produced now and then by the mechanical force of the waves dashing against my mouth and nose." To avoid this he had to keep his head well back, and hence the two transverse semicircular lines of abrasion about four inches long and two inches apart, which were plainly noticeable on my examination.

Governor Tilden goes about making speeches to various pleasant autumn gatherings, and President Grant in his peregrinations ventures upon a little piece of oratorical target practice, and the New York Herald [illegible] them both a lecture, closing thus:

What we object to is not the travels but the speeches of our public functionaries. When the president and the governor go about addressing the people it looks too much like the "touting" of theatrical managers. When enterprising impresarios create a star in rural neighborhoods, and cause the circulation of wonderful stories about this, that and the other prima donna or actor, we all know what they are after. It is not a lofty occupation, and it must be said for our managers that when they can afford it they give this work to agents. But when president and governor go about, the people suspect them also of an object, and if these things should go on they might by and by fall into a confusion between theatrical and political managers and wonder which is the statesman and which the impresario. Indeed, some of our statesmen would have made excellent theatrical managers, and possibly some of our managers might have made capable statesmen had they been bred to it; at least capable as the times go.

LAW MAKERS ON THEIR RAMBLES.

Olympia, W. T., Oct. 1[illegible], 1875.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

My last letter referred to the visit of the members of the legislature to the asylum and Pierce county jail. But little of interest occurred until we reached Seattle, where we landed amid the booming of cannon, clanging of bells, and whistling of steamers, while the Seattle brass band discoursed sweet music on the wharf, and afterwards preceded the legislative bodies to the pavilion, where the mayor and councilmen were in waiting to receive their guests. As soon as the large assembly was seated, Hon. Orange Jacobs, delegate to congress, came forward on the platform and, with a few suitable remarks, bade the party welcome to the city of Seattle. The speaker of the house, Hon. F. Evans, on behalf of the legislature, returned thanks for the honor conferred on them by the people of Seattle, and further stated that the object of the present visit was to examine the territorial university, see what repairs were needed, and make up their minds as to what amount of appropriation was necessary to make the institution an honor to Seattle and a credit to the territory at large. The hon. gentleman was very loudly applauded at the conclusion of his remarks, after which handshaking and congratulations were indulged in. According to an invitation extended by the mayor and council, the distinguished visitors met in the pavilion at 9 o'clock in the evening for the purpose of joining in the festive dance given in their honor, and were soon tripping it to the music of the excellent string band engaged for the occasion. At midnight a handsome collation was spread in the dining rooms of the Occidental hotel, and after all the good things had been rapidly disposed of, Judge Lewis, under direction of his honor the mayor, proceeded to give the toasts of the evening, which were suitably responded to by the various gentlemen called upon. About 1 A. M., the entire party returned to the hall, where dancing was kept up with spirit until 3 P. M., when all retired apparently well pleased with the evening's entertainment. Next morning at 9 o'clock the members of the legislature, accompanied by the governor, secretary and reporters, visited the territorial university, and examined the building together with the estimates for its repair. The edifice is a noble one, and is situated on the hillside, overlooking the bay and city of Seattle, and surrounded by grounds which, by means of a needful appropriation, could be wonderfully improved. The canvas on the cupola is worn and admits the rain, and the whole building throughout is sadly in need of repairs. It is hoped that the present legislature will not adjourn without doing what they can to improve the building and make it in every way suitable for the object for which it was designed. According to the printed report, of which each member received a copy, the following constituted the board of regents for the year ending July 30, 1875: E. M. Smithers, president; H. A. Atkins, secretary; J. J. Jordan, Treasurer; Rev. D. B. Bagley and Dr. J. C. Kellogg. The board of instructors consisted of Rev. G. F. Whitworth, A. M., president, history, rhetoric and philosophy; F. H. Whitworth, A. B., mathematics; F. Hanford, A. B., ancient languages; Mrs. M. W. Thayer, German, botany, physiology; Mrs. S. Russell, instrumental music; Miss Sarah Chatham, vocal music. The number of pupils on the register at that time was 96, and the courses of study are divided into primary, intermediate, academic, college and scientific. The rates of tuition per term are: Primary, $6; intermediate, $8; academic, $10; scientific, $12. The regents in March last passed a resolution instructing the president to organize the military department of the university, which has been done, and the cadet company now numbers about 30, under command of Capt. Eben S. Osborne, late of West Point academy. The other officers are First Lieut. G. F. Whitworth, Second Lieut. W. H. Webster and First Sergt. M. Thorpe. The company is provided with Springfield muskets, which are rather large and unwieldy to handle, especially for the younger boys. The drill performed by these young soldiers is most creditable and well worth seeing, and for rapidity of execution might put to the blush many an old soldier. A cabinet of minerals, ores, fossils, etc., is being carefully collected for the benefit of the pupils and will be found most useful for future reference.

Leaving Seattle at 11:45 A. M., we arrived at the penitentiary about 2 P. M. A wharf extends from the building to deep water, and the visitors, having crossed the Bridge of Sighs, entered the gates through which many are likely to pass in, and but few to pass out in the future. Mr. H. H. Pitts, the present superintendent, was formerly the telegraph operator in this city, and made many friends while in this locality by his gentlemanly, unassuming manner. The penitentiary is a strongly built edifice and is well located as a prison, being built on an island, from which escape seems almost impossible. The convicts are apparently well attended to, have good clothes, get plenty to eat and of the very best quality, and appear to be in a healthy condition. There are but eight U. S. prisoners confined in the penitentiary, and if Uncle Sam can't afford to board the convicts for less than $1 40 per day (which is simply a ridiculous figure), our legislature will then be in a position to consider the propriety of accepting the proposition of Mr. Billings, who offers to place the prisoners in a strong building, keep, feed and clothe them for $1 per day for four years. It is generally hoped that the legislature will attend to this matter as early as possible, not only to prevent escapes, which are no uncommon thing now a days, but also for the comfort of the prisoners themselves. Winter is now approaching, and if the Pierce county jail is a sample of all the others in this territory, I can heartily say, "God help the prisoners," as the poorest Indian I have seen is much better clothed than any of the unfortunates in that institution. If $50 a year has been invested in clothes for them, there should be something to show for it, and for that reason the people of the territory will be anxious to see some change made to better the condition of the unfortunate convict.

It may be an unusual precedent to have the convicts confined in a private penitentiary, but when the territory is unable to keep them on McNeil's Island at such a high figure, it can only adopt the next best plan at a lower figure. Anything will be better than the present system. I do not say that the sheriff of Pierce or any other county is at fault; they are probably only acting as their predecessors have done before them, but it is the system that I am opposed to, and the people of the territory, had they but the opportunity to see for themselves, would demand that justice should be done though the heavens should fall.

About 7 P. M. the party returned to Olympia well pleased with their visit, and your correspondent would take the opportunity to return thanks to the obliging purser of the [illegible], Mr. S. C. Lowe, for many favors rendered on the trip.

I should like to correct a slight error in my report of 15th inst. H. B. No. 27, introduced by Mr. Richardson, provides for the recovery of the minds of the insane patients, not their bodies.

Next week, if space permits, I shall refer to some of the bills now being introduced in the legislature.

OREGON.

The grain warehouses in Lane county are all crowded full.

Circuit court for Douglas county is in session at Roseburg this week.

S. R. Breeding, a young man living at Heppner, Umatilla county, died very suddenly last week.

The Umatilla Indians have on their reservation 8,000 horses, 2,000 head of cattle and [illegible] head of hogs.

The prospects are favorable for a grist mill on Elk creek, near Drain[illegible], an improvement much needed.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Corvallis and Yaquina Railroad Company was [illegible] in Corvallis last Saturday.

A man named Davis was arrested at Eugene last week on a charge of stealing a watch from D. Carroll at a hotel in that place.

A dozen families of immigrants have settled in the vicinity of Ellensburg, Curry county, [illegible], and still there is room for more.

The Siskiyou county (Cal.) agricultural society elected Judge Tolman of Jackson county, Oregon, one of its vice presidents.

The new road from Drain's to Elk Bridge is now open for travel, and the settlers on the river are somewhat jubilant over their success.

The steamer Arao, Capt. H. Wade, plying between Scottsburg and Gardner, is drawn out on the dry dock at the latter place undergoing repairs.

The Tipton brothers of Douglas county killed four bears last week. One weighed 600 pounds and furnished 75 pounds of clear bear's oil.

A. R. McConnell of Linn county, who was some time ago released from the Insane asylum, was again pronounced insane and taken to the asylum.

J. C. Berry, a prominent citizen of Salem, was stricken with paralysis on Thursday of last week, and came near dying, but at last accounts was much improved.

It is claimed that farming land is cheaper in Curry county than any other county in the state, and that plenty of it may be had under the Homestead law for the taking.

The retort at the Nonpareil cinnabar mines, Douglas county, is about up, and work will be commenced on Monday, the 2[illegible]. It is expected that 200 pounds of metal per day will be produced.

The new M. E. church at [illegible] will be dedicated as a place of worship on the [illegible] of November 187[illegible]. Rev. [illegible] Hartman and [illegible] G. W. Shafer will be there to assist in the services on that occasion.

A sheep herder named Kennedy, who was at work for W. H. Barker in Umpqua county, accidentally shot himself in the shoulder [illegible].

Lane county has two citizens who pay more than $800 tax each; eight who pay over $[illegible]; eleven who pay over $200; [illegible] who pay between $100 and $200; thirty pay between $75 and $100, and [illegible] fifty pay between $50 and $75.

On Friday night, October 8, 187[illegible], the stable of Roswell [illegible], living on Birch creek, [illegible] miles from Pendleton, was consumed in the night time, burning at the same time a fine harness and two fine blooded mares, each with a large, fine last spring's colt by her side. The loss is estimated at about $800. During the day previous a yellow jacket's nest had been destroyed by fire, and the fire, as supposed, afterwards extinguished, but unfortunately was not. A breeze springing up, the flame was fanned and communicated to the barn.

The Benton county Democrat says: The bulk of the wheat crop is now stored, and some idea can be formed of the amount of surplus grain in the county. The warehouses in this city are tolerably well filled. The Farmers' warehouse has 30,400 bushels of wheat and 2,500 bushels of oats; Cauthorn has in his house 35,400 bushels of wheat, 600 of oats, and 4,000 of barley; and Hamilton Bros. have perhaps as much as both the other houses. The Bonneville warehouse has over 10,000 bushels of wheat, and a large quantity is still held in the barns of the farmers.

TUESDAY MORNING OCTOBER 19 1875

THE HERALD AND ITS LONDON PARTNER

It appears the London Telegraph has served the New York Herald a rather shabby trick. Something over two years ago, as will be recollected, the Herald sent Mr Stanley in search of Dr Livingstone, who was reported lost in the interior of Africa. It was a very remarkable piece of newspaper enterprise, and its success was still more remarkable. As a natural result of the successful expedition of Stanley he was on his return with fresh news from Livingstone lionized in both England and America, and both countries were for awhile Stanleyized to a corresponding degree. Lately the Herald again set on foot a project of re-Stanleyization of the world, and prepared to send the same hunter of lost hunters to ascertain the particulars of the fate of Livingstone, which becoming known to the Telegraph the latter proposed a partnership in the excursion. The proposal was accepted by the Herald not without reluctance and Stanley went forth on his journey the "high joint commissioner" of the New York Herald and the London Telegraph, to visit all the Africans and gather all the facts touching the question whether Dr Livingstone came to his death from malarial fever, from hunger and thirst, from [illegible] with a gorilla, or by the hands of the barbarous inhabitants of some village with an unpronounceable name on the borders of Sahara. Everything went on smoothly till dispatches came from Stanley. These must needs come by way of London and of course were forwarded to the Telegraph. But instead of forwarding them before publication to the Herald so they might appear simultaneously in the two papers the Telegraph stole a march on its American partner and published a summary of the dispatches at once, thus destroying their value to the Herald as news matter. The Herald, naturally enough, feels outraged, and says a good many uncomplimentary things of the Telegraph, and no doubt the newspaper world generally will agree that the conduct of the London member of the firm has acted a part which entitles it to the worst that the New York [illegible] may choose to say.

EXIT RED CLOUD SAVILLE

Possibly the resignation of Indian Agent Saville has no particular significance, but its being handed in just at this time is, to say the least, suggestive. Saville was agent at Red Cloud, and was the person whose conduct was the subject of the investigation which has filled so large a place in the literature of the Indian Bureau of late. It was at this agency and under this agent that the facts were observed which called Prof Marsh of Yale College to the front and placed the late Secretary Delano "under fire" for so long a time. It was at this agency and under this agent that many of the irregularities, to use a mild term, referred to by Mr William Welsh took place. The commission to investigate these matters have completed their work and made out their report, and though the report has not been given to the public it has been given out pretty generally that there was nothing discovered to substantiate the charges against Saville. It is a little surprising, therefore, that he should retire just at this juncture. It would naturally be expected that he would hold on till his vindication so near at hand was completed, so he might retire, if retire he must, with honors of the contest. A complete vindication before the world upon an investigation so thorough and searching as the commission [illegible] have made would surely form a grateful couch on which to repose his wearied virtue. But he has gone, like the sun at the lying of day, and his posthumous vindication will possess little interest except to curious persons—if it ever come.

After the above was in type the vindication came. As to the charges of fraud, the commissioners render a Scotch verdict, "Not guilty." But they find Saville is incompetent and should be removed.

THE DEMONSTRATION OF THE UNTERRIFIED

It is announced that Congressman J K Luttrell of California, will speak here Saturday in advocacy of the election of Lafayette Lane to Congress. He is to have the company of Governor Grover and Mr Lane, and the faithful are urged by the Journal to turn out and give him a rousing reception in order that the old time Democratic fervor may be rekindled. The thing that is wanted just now says the Democratic organ is an "old fashioned demonstration of the unterrified." No doubt citizens of Portland of all parties, will turn out in sufficient numbers to furnish Mr Luttrell with a good audience. They ought to do so, for he has made a good congressman during the term he has just served, and will doubtless continue a good member in the congress to which he has just been elected. It may be doubted, however whether the "old fashioned" and the "unterrified" and the [illegible] and such will be very well taken care of by Mr Luttrell as he is not one of the "old fashioned" or "unterrified" sort, but a bran new Democrat who until recently had a habit of excoriating the "old timers" and terrifying the "unterrified" with genuine gusto. In fact Mr Luttrell is an "old time" Republican and never affiliated with the Democratic party till about six months ago. So we venture the prediction that the old time kind of Democrats will find little in his speech to rekindle their fervor, unless they change their base between now and Saturday night.

The Democratic [illegible] of Ohio claim that it was the school question and not the currency question that threw their party out in that State last Tuesday. Such nonsense as that may serve to keep the inflationists on their feet long enough to produce an irreconcilable breach in the party. It is an ill wind that blows good to nobody.

The report that the [illegible] Institute has been [illegible] with the Navy Department [illegible] the best explosive substance to deposit in Lincoln's grave to prevent its being tampered with, is officially denied.

ACROSS THE CHASM

There has been at Eugene a shaking of hands across the bloody chasm. It took place on Tuesday last, and the persons selected to conduct the performance on behalf of the people on either side of the chasm were [illegible] Gen [illegible] Applegate of the Republican side and Gen Joseph Lane of the Democratic side. With such [illegible] representatives of the late antagonists to do the honors the affair could not but be eminently satisfactory to all parties. To show our readers that it was indeed so, we quote from the two party papers of Eugene. The Guard speaking from the standpoint of the southern edge of the chasm thus [illegible] handsome for the Republican part of the entertainment:

In compliance with the invitation of a number of our citizens Gen Applegate delivered an address at the court house upon political topics on Tuesday evening last to a large audience [illegible] special invitation of the speaker Gen Lane was present. The speech was in many respects a remarkable one. We have not space for a synopsis of it, as over two hours were occupied in its delivery. The speaker began by pronouncing a glowing eulogy upon the personal character and abilities of Gen Lane, which for true eloquence we have seldom heard equalled. He then branched off upon political questions, and while we cannot agree with many of his positions and deductions, candor compels us to say that his views were broadly conservative, in some instances erroneous, but evidently sincere. There was nothing of the bitterness of a partisan harangue, no attempt to [illegible] political contests [illegible] in fact his remarks were addressed to the judgment, and while they satisfied his party friends they gave offense to none. Reason and not the passions was appealed to, and as reason is ever a better guide than the passions, so much better has been the effect of his speech upon the community. The people are tired of having the bloody shirt shaken in their faces. It has carried too many brainless shysters and self seeking demagogues into office. General Applegate has recognized this fact in advance of the leaders of his party. He said in substance, "Come, let us reason together. We have a common interest to subserve, a common purpose to attain. Friendships must not be broken nor animosities engendered because we differ as to the best means of accomplishing the public good. It is only the work of the worst class of politicians to stir up bitter partisan feelings, they can [illegible] in no other way. For the people to [illegible] is but death to them. But we believe the day for them to succeed is fast receding into the past. The voice of faction is giving way to the voice of reason and candor, and men contemplate with wonder how they have misjudged each other in the past.

And the State Journal, a Republican organ, in turn speaks of Gen Lane's part in the programme as follows:

According to announcement General Lane was on hand at the court house last Tuesday afternoon and was greeted by a large crowd. The venerable old man was introduced in a very handsome manner by Judge J M Thompson and he at once began his address. He told over in his own peculiar way, the story of the republic, and explained from his stand point the cause of the troubles through which the nation has passed, explained how that he had refused high command under the Confederacy, and how that he might have commanded on the Union side. He could not engage in such a war—could not find it in his heart to fight with and shed the blood of Americans, but intimated that the Confederacy would have lasted longer if he had taken high command. He denounced the "third term," the mobilier and salary grab, the military operations in the South, the black Friday affair and the system of granting lands for the construction of railroads. He spoke for about two hours, showing remarkable vitality and vigor both mentally and physically for a man of his age. He was humorous, witty and sarcastic, and, in truth, he made many very wise and profound observations. In fact it is, we believe, generally conceded that the old father of the Oregon Democracy made one of his greatest speeches. The Democracy present were happy—too happy; they smiled extensively and sometimes loudly, and as they sat there under the sound of the voice of old Joe, they were as happy as a garden of big sunflowers.

How different that from the vituperative criticism which has generally characterized the newspaper notices of speeches made by persons of opposite politics! and how much better! The affair at Eugene all the circumstances presenting themselves to the mind at once, has a comic aspect, but it has also a serious aspect which is pleasant to reflect upon. Let the dead past bury its dead, and the living present be devoted to fraternity among the living.

Ben Butler is not much of a prophet. He was overtaken by a newspaper man on a Pennsylvania railroad train recently. The following choice extract from the interview will show the drift of the conversation: "How about Ohio, general?" "Thirty thousand Democratic." "But the school question?" "Only keeps it from being fifty thousand." "Do you think Tilden would be pleased at a Democratic sweep in Ohio?" "It would make him mad as ——." Just then the whistle blew down brakes and I didn't catch the last word of the sentence. Wonder what it could have been. "You see, young man," said the general renewing his theme, "there is going to be trouble in the Democratic party this fall. It is my opinion that there will be a decided split on the rag and hard money question. It will take place in Pennsylvania. In a word the Democratic party will be broken in halves over the backbone of the Alleghenies."

There are contradictory reports respecting the appointment of ex-Senator Chandler to be Secretary of the Interior. While one dispatch asserts that it is generally understood the position has been offered to him and he has it under advisement, another says the report is utterly discredited at Washington. We sincerely hope that those who utterly discredit the report may prove to have formed a correct estimate of his chances. His appointment would "utterly discredit" the administration at home and have a strong tendency to perform the same operation abroad for the nation.

The Washington Chronicle well remarks that when a merchant cannot tell what a paper dollar will be worth twenty four hours ahead it is about time to cry "Halt" to those who by advocating inflation would add to this uncertainty. Business men want confidence to be restored, and this can come only through a settled policy that will put an end to the daily fluctuations of the currency.

Salem has a big bonanza in the state fair. It is estimated that the capital city realized not less than $60,000 out of the fair last week. This is doubtless a large estimate, but after making all due allowances the fair is a rich [illegible].

CITY.

AN CUT.—An old lady residing in the upper portion of the city had the misfortune to meet with a very painful accident on Sunday evening. She was on her way to church and when near the corner of Seventh and Jefferson streets, struck her foot against some object and fell heavily to the sidewalk. The right leg, just above the knee joint came in violent contact with the sharp corner of some obstruction which caused her great pain. Thinking the pain would be only momentary, the old lady, after picking herself up, started on, but after proceeding a short distance the limb hurt so badly that she was compelled to relinquish the intention of going to church. She started to return home which was reached with much difficulty. As the limb continued to give great pain an examination was made, when it was discovered that a deep gash had been cut transversely, just above the patella several inches long and almost to the bone. A surgeon was summoned and the gash sewed up, but the injuries will probably confine the lady to the house for several weeks.

BELL TO BE RECAST.—Messrs Moore & Mc[illegible], of the Oregon Brass Works, received for recasting, on Saturday, a bell which has long been used for the Philomath College in Benton county. Some time ago the bell was cracked and rendered useless, but its impaired tone was restored by means of the new process for mending bells, invented by Mr D [illegible] Bigelow, of Salem. By this process the ragged edges of the seam were solidly cemented and the bell rendered serviceable again. A few weeks since the bell was cracked in another place and the tone again spoiled. The brazen monitor was sent to the foundry in this city to be recast, which will be done in a few days. The new bell will weigh, when mounted, about 700 pounds. Originally it was cast in San Francisco.

RETURNED.—General O. O. Howard returned to the city on Saturday evening from the Dalles, having completed his inspecting tour to Malheur Indian reservation, and the military post at Walla Walla. He reports having experienced a pleasant and profitable journey through that section of the country and returns in fine health and spirits. Capt J. A. Sladen, of Gen Howard's personal staff, who was so unfortunate as to be thrown from a horse while out riding at Walla Walla, and have a leg fractured, was left at the garrison there. His condition is such as to render his removal, for the present, hazardous to the safety, and speedy restoration to use of the injured limb. Several weeks will probably elapse before he can be brought down to his home.

SLOWLY CONVALESCING.—Over five weeks ago Hon Ben Simpson, while on the way from Siletz Indian reservation to Corvallis, was dragged from his horse by an overhanging limb and sustained very severe injuries. He was conveyed to his home in this city and has since been closely confined to his bed. Yesterday, for the first time within five weeks Mr. Simpson was able to rise from his couch. He is slowly convalescing, and will be able to report at his post of duty in a few weeks. He has suffered very much from the injuries received and can congratulate himself on the fact that they did not result more seriously.

DEATH OF MR. WAGNER.—After a long and painful illness, Mr John Wagner, proprietor of the Washington hotel, an old and respected citizen, departed this life yesterday morning at an early hour. Deceased was a worthy member of the Turn Verein Society, and also of several other German organizations. In respect to the memory of the departed, the flag over the Turner's hall was floating at half mast. Mr. Wagner was aged 49 years. He leaves a family and a large circle of friends to mourn his departure. This afternoon the funeral obsequies will take place from the late residence of deceased.

DEAD CELESTIALS.—On Saturday evening the [illegible] of two defunct subjects of the Flowery Kingdom were brought down from the [illegible]. The bodies were exhumed near [illegible] where they were buried some time [illegible] and convenient transportation [illegible] were encased in hermetically [illegible] and enclosed in strong boxes. These bodies are en route for China. They will be sent to San Francisco and thence to the land of Confucius for permanent [illegible].

A HEAVY FALL.—Yesterday afternoon, [illegible], while two small children were [illegible] upon the balcony of the National [illegible], one little boy slipped between the rail and fell to the sidewalk below, nearly [illegible] feet. He was picked up in an insensible [illegible] and after considerable effort the [illegible] was partially restored to consciousness. A physician was summoned, who after an examination, pronounced the injuries of a [illegible] character.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—On Sunday, the annual meeting of the Congregation Beth Israel was held, at which time the following [illegible] were elected to serve for the ensuing year: S. M. Lyon, president; M. Hexter, vice president; M Seller treasurer; A. Wald[illegible], financial secretary; Ed. Kahn, recording secretary. The following named gentlemen were elected a board of trustees, Jacob Mayer, M. [illegible], S. Blumauer and P. Selling.

DIPLOMA—SILVER MEDAL.—The firm of Zan Bros. & Co., of this city, have been awarded by the State Agricultural Society a diploma for [illegible] articles of brooms, wood and willow ware which were on exhibition at the fair. The parent firm—Gillespie, Zan & Co., of San Francisco—have recently been awarded a silver medal by the managers of the Australian Exposition for the exhibition of similar articles.

AWARDED FIRST PREMIUM.—Our fellow townsman, Mr. T. Brasel, was awarded the first premium at the state fair for the best beehive and a smoker, an instrument for the management of bees, and also for the best exhibit of honey. The hive is a non swarming hive, and the invention of Mr. Quinby of New York state, one of the most noted and successful apiarians in the United States.

SOCIABLE.—The young people of the Baptist church will give a sociable at the vestry on Friday evening of this week, for the benefit of the Sunday school library. Twenty five cents admission will be charged for all not members of the school.

IMPROVEMENT.—Mr. Wiggs is putting up a new feed stable, 4[illegible]x75 feet, at the corner of Front and Salmon streets.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS

Races at the White House to morrow.

James J. Welsh offers to trot his mare M[illegible] Welsh against Mark Twain for coin.

The Pioneers challenged the College club last Saturday for a game or series of games to take place on the 30th inst. It is likely the College club will accept.

The first premium $100 offered to base ball clubs by the state fair society was awarded to the College club they having beaten the Pioneers of Portland on the 15th inst 42 to 1[illegible] and the Aldines of Salem on the 16th by 24 to 13. The Aldine and Pioneer clubs played on Saturday afternoon for the second premium, $40. By an arrangement the game was, as the Pioneers claim, to have ended at 4:30 o'clock, no matter how the figures stood. When the hour had arrived to [illegible] the Pioneers withdrew as they proposed to leave for Portland at 5 o'clock. The game at that time—end of the seventh inning—st[illegible] 18 [illegible] in favor of the Pioneers. [illegible] reserved his decision until yesterday when he gave [illegible] came to the Aldines by [illegible] will entitle them to claim the second [illegible].

DISTINGUISHED BRITISH OFFICER AND STAFF

We were slightly in error in yesterday's issue respecting the party of English gentlemen who arrived in Portland on Saturday evening from Walla Walla. These gentlemen, as we have subsequently learned, are not connected with the Canadian Pacific railway enterprise. Maj Gen Edward Selby Smyth, who heads the party, is an officer in the British army and has temporary command of the Canadian militia. At present he is employed by the English government in making a military tour of inspection all through Canada and British Columbia, visiting the various posts, inspecting the mounted police, and also to visit prominent American officers at different forts. Gen Smyth is specially delegated by the Canadian government to perfect arrangements or devise some measures which will result in the more speedy arrest of criminals escaping from one side to the other. He is also authorized to make an examination of the country and report upon the same. His personal staff consists of Capt and Rt Hon Stapleton and Lieut Fitz William. The party came from Ottawa to Winnipeg on the Red river and from that place over the country to Walla Walla—a total distance of nearly 2,000 miles. The entire distance was accomplished on horseback. On arriving at Walla Walla the officers of the garrison called on Gen Smyth and party at the hotel appearing in full dress. They also gave them a cordial reception at the garrison befitting the rank and title of the distinguished guests, on which occasion a very pleasant time was experienced. In passing the fort a salute of thirteen guns was fired and all the officers turned out and met the visitors at the boat. General Howard, who was at Walla Walla at the time on an inspecting tour, came down the river with General Smyth and staff to this city arriving here on Saturday evening. General Smyth, we understand, has served in the British army for four years in India and also a number of years at Cape of Good Hope. He is a brave man, an officer of much experience, and has rendered distinguished services for his country. From here the party will proceed to Vancouver Island to inspect the military posts there. Mr Vowell, a gentleman also alluded to, is sent by the government of British Columbia to make arrangements for the transportation of the party and their baggage from Kootenai to Victoria. The instruments referred to are rifles and fowling pieces which were used by the party in killing buffalo and other game while traveling over the vast expanse of country stretching between Winnipeg and Walla Walla. Gen Smyth and party are now stopping at the Clarendon Hotel. To morrow morning they will start for Victoria.

OUR COUNTY JAIL.

A MEMORIAL PRESENTED THE COUNTY COURT PRAYING FOR SOME MODIFICATIONS TO THE INSTITUTION WHICH WILL CONTRIBUTE TO THE HEALTH AND COMFORT OF THE INMATES.

Yesterday the following memorial was presented the county court for its consideration, which was read and filed:

Gentlemen: Your memorialist begs leave to state that for the past eight years he has been a resident of this county in the city of Portland; that he is by profession a minister of the Gospel; that during this period he has, at various times, regularly or occasionally, visited the county jail, and is well acquainted with the character of the premises; that about three years ago an arrangement was made upon the external premises of the jail (said jail being underground and lighted only by basement windows) for stowing winter fuel which has the effect of seriously obstructing the light and ventilation on the north side of the jail and partially on the south side.

He would respectfully submit to your honorable body the fact that the best judgment and experience of enlightened nations as represented in congress reports etc is strongly opposed to underground or basement jails or prisons as unhealthy, difficult of ventilation, drainage and proper cleaning, as well as unjust to the unfortunate classes who are detained there and whose widely ranging degrees of turpitude should be met by proper penal discrimination in imprisonment, diet etc, but not by an unhealthy location and exposure to disease. That such being the general opinion and conviction it behooves this county ultimately to build an above ground jail, and so long as the present jail is occupied as such to ameliorate the condition of its tenants in respect of air, light etc, and not make it worse. And he would further submit that he has instituted an inquiry as to the probable cost of removing and rebuilding proper sheds at a proper distance from the windows, etc. Also of a high iron picket fence on each side of jail windows so as to prevent intruders or communication on the part of prisoners with the outside world, and the cost of said changes is estimated not to exceed $1,500.

Your memorialist would further submit that the season is very near at hand when good light and ventilation are most needed during the rains and dampness of winter, and the larger occupancy by inmates as usual in the fall and winter months, when also the changes suggested and storing of wood etc, if too long deferred cannot be conveniently made. Therefore your memorialist prays your honorable body to remedy the evils spoken of either in part by removal of sheds or whol[ly] by the open iron fence, and that your action in view of winter be speedily taken.

THOS. L. ELIOT.

EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RELIEF OF THE AFFLICTED.

The Surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana, Pacific Branch 319 Bush street, San Francisco, have finally yielded to the many urgent appeals to visit Portland, Oregon, for the benefit of the people of Oregon and Washington Territory. Three or more of the surgeons will be at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, Portland, Oregon, on the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th of November, 1875.

They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change, fit and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Catarrh, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip they will not make another, therefore, all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to San Francisco or Indianapolis must do so at this time. No cases will be undertaken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the institution is entirely responsible, and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, curing thousands annually. Remember the time and place, and come early. ☞ Send to the Institute for circular.

We claim that the Elmwood collar will fit better, look more like linen and keep clean longer than any other.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

Pupils entering the week after the State Fair will pay only for the last half of the term. A partial reorganization of classes will afford a good opportunity for beginning studies.

The Maintenance of Health.

The maintenance of health is often more difficult than its recovery. Vitiated conditions of the atmosphere, unhealthy occupations, extremes of heat and cold and constant exposure to rough weather are all so many provocations of disease. There is but one sure way of effectually guarding the system when thus subjected to influences prejudicial to health and that is to establish by judicious tonic and alterative medication vigor of the body and regularity of its functions. The properties of an invigorant and corrective are happily combined in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which at the same time that it infuses unwonted vitality into the system, overcomes all tendency of the stomach, liver, bowels and urinary organs to deviate from regularity in the discharge of functions upon which the welfare of the entire physical organism is dependent. Health cannot be more effectually maintained than by using the Bitters.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE THEATER.—"Lancashire Lass" and "His Last Legs" were rendered in a very acceptable manner last evening, at New Market theater by the Phelps troupe. A rather small house greeted the reappearance of the company, which can be accounted for on the ground of counter attractions and the inclement weather. However, the audience made up in enthusiasm what was lacking in numbers, and the performance passed off very smoothly. This morning the troupe will start for Olympia where they will play the remainder of the week, returning to this city next Monday.

THE CIRCUS.—Notwithstanding the unfavorableness of the weather John Wilson's large pavilion was literally jammed last evening on the occasion of the opening performance. Not a vacant seat could be found, and standing room could hardly be obtained. The performance was excellent throughout, including slack rope, trapeze, vaulting, parallel bars, etc. Especially worthy of mention are the daring acts of horsemanship displayed by Mme [illegible], Mr Herbert and Little Johnny Cook. Each act of equestrianship won its meed of applause. During the evening that prince of horse tamers Omar Kingsley, introduced a number of wonderfully trained horses which won the unqualified admiration of the vast audience. Mr. Kingsley also appeared in the ring, mounted on a large and superbly formed brown horse and gave the audience a specimen of his peerless equestrianship. While it can be said that the circus is inferior in several respects to former combinations which in times past have visited the city, yet we can truthfully maintain that no company has ever before exhibited in Portland as great a number of trained horses. In that particular, Wilson's circus surpasses any former company. To see Omar Kingsley exhibit his stud of trained horses is well worth the price of admission. As the company will only remain a few days we would advise all to avail themselves of the opportunity. This afternoon at 3 o'clock a matinee will be given for the special accommodation of ladies and little folks. A performance will be given again this evening.

CAUTION!

Having satisfied ourselves that certain dealers are selling inferior goods which they represent as our manufacture, we therefore caution the public against such misrepresentations.

Any person buying goods, sold as OUR MAKE, which should not give satisfaction will confer a favor upon the undersigned by transmitting a sample thereof, together with the name of the firm who sold the same. We will then be enabled to prosecute parties guilty of palming off base imitations for goods of our manufacture.

The week opens in financial circles without any special change from the conditions before noticed other than a continued tendency in matters to set tle back to the accustomed channels of business in which matters were running before San Francisco's panic. Money though showing nothing akin to a [illegible] at the same time is not actually scarce for the [illegible] purposes [illegible] The release of large sums to California of late and also some disbursements on shares of dividend paying stocks has had a slight [illegible] our home market, and the condition at present may be regarded as one of [illegible] ease with a good deal of encouragement in the prospects of the future

An Eastern paper with a good reputation as authority in financial matters sometime ago took the same ground defended by ex Senator Schurz on the currency question and does not hesitate to pronounce the national banking system as one of the best that history has produced declaring that although the financial policy of the government may be open to criticism and the attitude of leading national bankers on prominent political questions may be opposed to the best interests of the country that any attack upon the existence of the banks is an attack upon the prosperity and stability of the business of the nation

Foreign Crops and Markets.

The English Agricultural Gazette says "A journey across England at two points and up and down almost its entire length the past fortnight confirms the returns before received in regard to the crops. There can be no doubt that the principal grain crop of this country is this year considerably below an average. Of the returns upon the whole 30 per cent declare wheat to be an average crop 7½ per cent, put it below an average

Barley is the best crop of the year in England—according to returns not more than 10 per cent. below an average The returns of oats are very variable Beans and peas, which promised well have been injured by the weather. The root crop is generally good

With great fluctuations in the temperature the bulk of the English cereal crops has been safely gathered and generally in good order The samples of wheat show great variety in the quality much being inferior and some very poor shrivelled and thin, though fair qualities are coming to market in small proportion Nothing can be clearer than that the crop as a whole, will be short

It is now at latest cable advices estimated that the United Kingdom will require to import during the harvest year from September 1, 1875 to August 31 1876 88,000,000 bushels of wheat or its equivalent in wheat and flour

In Austro Hungary the yield of the cereal crop is not large and exports from thence will be on a small scale

The supplies of wheat at the inland markets in France had been up to the 11th last mostly of last year's growth and were very scanty for the time of year owing probably to the lateness of the harvest and to its variously reported yield but the small supply is met by a still smaller demand

The quality of the new crop of wheat received at Galatz Roumania, is wretchedly bad and out of condition. The demand was entirely for old wheat, of which there was still some quantity left Maize at Galatz met with a steady demand at 27s@27s 6d ₩ imperial quarter Freights to United Kingdom at 4s ₩ quarter, and 3s 9d for direct ports of United Kingdom.

Domestic Produce.

We have no advices from abroad to change the condition of our home market so early in the week and prices for all kinds of domestic produce are about as quoted by us last The tendency of the wheat market seems to be toward greater firmness if not a permanent advance—all quotations for round [illegible] The ensuing week it is expected will witness a good deal of activity in this cereal and should vessels now nearly due from San Francisco arrive on time the holders will be enabled to get off a great part of the large quantities now stored in the warehouses here. The receipts continue very heavy and vessels have quick dispatch. Flour and mill feed are in fair supply at our quotations. Provisions are in good demand both for the home trade and for shipment Dairy products of choice quality command full rates and are ready sale Dried fruits have a weaker tendency There is some activity in hides and poltries but quotations are unchanged But little is doing in the wool market and fair lots are in demand Some fine lots of beef cattle for the local trade have arrived while choice mutton sheep are not so plentiful

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship John L. Stephens, from San Francisco with freight and passengers will be due at this port tomorrow night

The British bark Blanche having completed her cargo of wheat for Europe has gone down the river and will sail in a day or two

The British ship Valparaiso from Liverpool for Vancouver's Island was spoken August 17th, lat 15° north and Long 28° 43' west.

It is estimated that the vessels in the river and on the way or under engagement at San Francisco to load Oregon wheat will carry 500 000 bushels

The British ship City of Perth having her ballast out is loading rapidly with wheat

The British ship Lanarkshire has discharged most of her ballast at Albina and will come to this side to begin loading this week

Portland, September 18 1875.

SEATTLE Homestead Association.

A Rare Chance for Profitable Investment.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE RAPIDLY ACCUMULATING interests and greatly increasing population property in the city of Seattle is held at prices regarded as exhorbitant, and in order to meet the demands of persons of small means seeking homes the SEATTLE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION has been organized composed of some of the most responsible men of that section Tracts of land in the city and extending to the borders of Lake Washington have been secured surveyed and platted and [illegible] lots [illegible] each have been placed on the market for distribution and are now offered at the small sum [illegible] each lot payable monthly in six installments without interest. A lot [illegible]

It [illegible] Seattle had a population of only [illegible] A large number are daily seeking tenements and find great difficulty in procuring them, though buildings are going up in all directions the demand is still for more The city of Seattle is beautifully situated on Elliott Bay Puget Sound It has fine natural advantages and great resources with a most promising future The three coal deposits now being worked with insufficient facilities by three different companies called respectively the Seattle [illegible] and Tibbet are producing [illegible] 600 tons of Coal daily, which does not supply the demand The manufacture of lumber is also an important and profitable business Ship building is an active industry with other mechanical and useful occupations encouraging to the investment of capital and labor Two opposing lines of Steamships direct to San Francisco, afford unusual facilities for freight and passage every week Seattle is destined to be the Pittsburgh of the Pacific Coast Her material resources are [illegible] Her Iron, Coal and Timber, the three great commercial staple [illegible] will make a [illegible] tributary to her interests. The valleys of the White Black and Cedar rivers tributaries of the Duwamish river which empties into the harbor of Seattle will support a large agricultural population

Lake Washington, [illegible] miles in length and from [illegible] to 6 miles wide is about two miles in a direct line from the waters of the Sound It is the intention of the incorporators of this Association whose standing in community is a guaranty of square dealing to open immediately an Avenue [illegible] feet wide extending from the bay directly east through the Homestead lands to Lake Washington, in which charming locality will be erected the mansions of her business men The Avenue will be properly graded paved and sidewalks laid at an expense of $15,000 and will constitute the chief drive and promenade from Seattle to the Lake It will run along the City Park the College grounds and Lake View Park Lots on either side will command at least four fold the price paid The Association will erect buildings for a First Class Hotel at the east end of the Avenue on Lake Washington Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the Company

When all the lots are subscribed for the distribution will be made The Choice of Lots, including the Hotel will be sold at public auction among the subscribers and the proceeds be divided equally among them. Due notice of the time and place of sale will be made Warrantee deeds based on a United States patent will be issued to subscribers without charge

Let no one doubt the future growth of Seattle Nature has placed her in a position to realize the benefits of an immense traffic Her port is always open neither ice nor shifting sand bars impede navigation No pilotage or river towage to add to her freights Clear sailing all the year round from her harbor to the ocean Consider the matter carefully, Think, too what San Francisco was in 1849 what chances of a competency were lost in ignoring the future growth of that magnificent city as thousands can attest Chicago in 1830 was but a small town, to-day a great city the admiration of all Let not this opportunity slip The small sum of $75, payable monthly without interest, may make you comfortable and be a great benefit to your children There can be no other investment requiring so small an amount of money that can secure such ample benefits For further information the examination of maps and the purchase of shares call on

(Carminative)

For Diarrhœa and Dysentery use Dr.

Jayne's Carminative Balsam, As changes of climate or water, and indiscretions in eating often produce these complaints, travelers and others should always keep a bottle of this remedy by them It never fails to subdue the most violent attacks, and it is equally serviceable for Cramps in the Stomach or Bowels, Griping Pains, &c.

For Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and Colic use Dr. Jayne's

Carminative Balsam. It removes all soreness of the abdomen, allays the irritation and calms the action of the Stomach. It may always be relied on to give immediate relief, and besides being effectual, is a pleasant and safe remedy, easily administered to children.

For Asiatic Cholera and all [illegible] Affections

use promptly Dr. Jayne's Carminative [illegible] It checks the Diarrhœa, suppresses the Cramps which generally accompany attacks of Cholera,—and conquers the disease in its incipiency. It has frequently been administered in neighborhoods where the Cholera has been raging epidemically, and it has seldom failed to give [illegible] and permanent relief. The Carminative has maintained its reputation as a Curative for nearly forty years, is equally effective in all [illegible] and is a Standard Household Remedy, should be kept in every family.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. Dr. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint, You may be in the first stage remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all its ill effects remember that if you persist in procrastination the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance when the door of hope will be closed against you when no angel of mercy can bring you relief In no case has the Doctor failed of success Then let not despair work upon your imagination but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill, or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave. Full course of treatment $25 00 Send money by Post Office order or Express with full description of the case Call, or address
